About StreetFX

StreetFX is a fully automated benchmark pricing service designed to streamline and enhance your FX execution capabilities. StreetFX can be used to execute FX transactions across all accounts agnostic of custodian, providing investment managers with the ability to use it as their single execution service.

Using a rules-based workflow to increase transparency and efficiency, StreetFX can easily integrate with your existing infrastructure to create an end-to-end solution that automates the entire FX trade lifecycle. In doing so, it allows trading teams to focus on workflows that generate alpha for their organizations.

Developed in partnership with investment managers, we created a solution that meets specific client needs around trade execution efficiency, transparency, and reliability. StreetFX uses rules-based automation to increase consistency and decrease operational risk with a flexible, scalable architecture that works in any trading environment.

With StreetFX, you gain access to a market leader with a global footprint and experience serving a wide institutional client base of asset managers and asset owners. Our platform is both suited to firms that want to outsource some or all of their FX trading capabilities, as well as those that need an automated solution that integrates with their existing trading teams.

Why StreetFX?

Efficiency

Spend less time managing the admin around trade execution.

Our rules-based workflow provides a set of standardized parameters that are applied to all spot trades and agreed to up-front with investment managers.

You can set parameters for currency trade execution, workflows, messaging protocols, and reporting. Then, at pre-negotiated times and spreads, we will execute your trades.

Interoperability

StreetFX can be integrated within multiple points of a client workflow, including order management systems, matching and affirmation platforms, or with middle-office providers. We work with each client to understand their processes and make things as efficient as possible.

As a solution that uses straight-through processing, StreetFX can process underlying asset-related trade data in many ways to streamline FX execution as markets move to shortened settlement cycles (i.e., T+1).

We can create a direct connection to capture trade information early in the trade workflow for faster execution, helping to meet compressed settlement deadlines. Through standard protocols, such as FIX, SWIFT, or File Transfer, we can also connect to order management, trade affirmation, and matching platforms, such as those offered by DTCC, as well as middle-office services. StreetFX is also fully integrated with the Charles River Development platform, offering expanded functionality for your FX execution needs.

Transparency

Enable full transparency and management oversight with analytics on every element of your FX trading strategy.

We provide comprehensive, flexible reporting into our FX execution process and pricing methodology.

Price efficiency and confidence

We offer WM/Reuters market rate pricing sources based on customer preference.

Use StreetFX to execute trades via independent, intra-day benchmarks with pre-negotiated spreads. We offer a uniform pricing methodology based on a single benchmark, ensuring that rates are transparent and competitive.

Optimize operations and costs

StreetFX empowers investment managers to optimize their global operations. Avoid costly infrastructure builds and the associated headache of additional workloads by harnessing our scalable FX trading facilities.

StreetFX is a scalable solution that meets all your enterprise's trading needs, seamlessly handling spot FX activity across multiple time zones and jurisdictions.

Dedicated support

Ensure you are getting the most out of the platform – and that it's tailored to your business' needs.

A dedicated Relationship Manager will help you set-up, configure, and manage the ongoing use of your StreetFX platform.
